

Introduction

Hello, my name is Nagesh Singh, I live in Ghaziabad with my family, I am graduated from ABES Engineering College Ghaziabad with a bachelor's degree in Electrical & Electronics.

Although I have completed my Btech in EEE, I always had an interest in programming languages and coding, which led me to join an ODM based company in Gurugram in year 2020, where I worked as a 5G-L3 Developer for 2 years.

But then due to some family reason I have to quit my job and came back to my hometown, when finally, things started to settle down, then instead of joining back to my previous job profile, I started to explore different technologies, upon exploring I was quite impressed by web designing and web development.

So, I decided to start my journey as MERN Stack developer. Then I bought course on coding Ninja and Udemy. I completed all major topics by mid-November.

During that time frame I build some front-end projects and some back-end projects, I have mentioned few of them in my resume.

I am quite confident that I have adequate knowledge of MERN Stack and ready to contribute my skills to grow mutually.

Strengths:

I have a solid work ethic.

- When I'm working on a project, I prefer to complete the project before deadline. Even in my previous job my senior were impressed by this quality.

My enthusiasm and hunger to learn more skills.

- I am always motivated to learn new set of skills, new libraries so I can contribute greatly to my team.

I am also a team player always find it easy to work with teammates.

Weakness:

I can't be confident about something if I haven't tried it, I have meet people who are confident/motivated, that they know how to do it even they not tried it even once. So, I lack this kind of confident.

Message:

"My strengths include the fact I am a very fast learner, I am enthusiastic and hungry to learn, and I am great whilst dealing with people. So being a fast learner means you have the assurance that I will come into the team and learn the role quickly. You won't have to spend your valuable time training me up for weeks on end or endlessly supervising me.

My enthusiasm and hunger to learn means I will always be self-motivated in the role because we spend a lot of time at work, and I want to do something worthwhile in my career and make progress year on year.

Being someone who is good with people, I feel I can bring positivity to the team and I will be a great role model whilst representing the company brand. Now, undoubtedly, my weakness is the fact I am a work in progress.

I have little work experience, but I am aware of that and by hiring me you will be getting someone who has no pre-conceived ideas or opinions, so you can develop me into the perfect, high-performing employee."

That is a brilliant answer, if you are a fresher or someone with zero work experience. You are fresh out of your education, you have no experience, you are aware of it, but you are willing to learn. Also, the fact you are someone who has no pre-conceived ideas or opinions, so they can train you up to be the perfect employee.

Question to Interviewer:

Is there anything about my background or resume that I can further explain to you to demonstrate my suitability?
